

Regional Assessment of Offshore Wind Development
in Nova Scotia

Join Our Indigenous Knowledge Advisory Group!

Who we are looking for...

Are you Indigenous or someone who self-identifies as Indigenous? Are you passionate about protecting our lands, waters, and cultural heritage while contributing to sustainable energy development? We invite you to be a part of our Indigenous Knowledge Advisory Group for the Regional Assessment of Offshore Wind Development in Nova Scotia.

This is an exciting opportunity to have your voice heard and to shape the future of renewable energy in our region. As a member of the Advisory Group, you will play a crucial role in providing valuable Indigenous knowledge, perspectives, and recommendations to guide the assessment process.

Why Join...

Influence the Regional Assessment Process: Your expertise and traditional knowledge will directly influence the assessment and ensure that Indigenous perspectives are integrated into the process.

Protect Our Cultural Heritage: Contribute to the protection and preservation of our cultural heritage, including important sites, traditions, and practices, while promoting sustainable energy solutions.

Collaboration and Networking: Collaborate with other Indigenous representatives, experts, scientists, and stakeholders, fostering partnerships and building networks that can enhance future opportunities for our communities.

Meaningful Engagement: Engage in meaningful dialogue, sharing your insights, experiences, and concerns related to offshore wind energy development, ensuring that your community's needs and interests are taken into account.

Sustainable Development: Contribute to the development of sustainable energy solutions that align with your cultural values, respect your rights, and promote long-term cultural, environmental and economic sustainability.

Join us in shaping a future where renewable energy and Indigenous values coexist harmoniously. We are committed to creating a safe space that respects and values Indigenous knowledge, culture, and perspectives.

To apply or learn more, please contact us at OffshoreWindNS-EolienneExtracotiereNE@iaac-aeic.gc.ca.

We look forward to hearing from you and working together towards a sustainable energy future for our communities and generations to come.
